

To Whom It May Concern

It is my pleasure to recommend A. Cecilia Detrich for employment.

I have known Cecilia for fifteen years through our work in the [REDACTED] School System. We have implemented innovative experiences for children and developed our district's Talented Young Artists Program. Cecilia's talents are many both as an outstanding art teacher and science instructor. Her interdisciplinary lessons bring out the best in her students. She is highly creative and understands how to motivate and challenge students to think outside the box. I've seen work produced by her classes that display sophistication beyond the K-3 level. She works patiently and with much ingenuity.

Cecilia demonstrates a passion for teaching. Her success in developing a high interest science program, particularly in the field of astronomy, has introduced many generations of New Milford primary students to a world class observatory in their own backyard. Her enthusiasm has lit a fire of interest not only in the students but in the staff.

Cecilia's gracious temperament adds to her abilities. She is personable and possesses a beautiful character. Indefatigable in producing school-wide art shows year after year, she would be an asset for any job she puts her mind to. If you are looking for a major contributor to your organization, it's Cecilia. As an outstanding candidate, I highly recommend her without any reservations. I miss her already.

Please feel free to call [REDACTED] or email me [REDACTED] if you need more information.

Sincerely Yours,

Eileen E. Cooper, Ph. D.
